Northwestern Mutual Financial Network and The Kelley Financial Group

Northwestern Mutual Financial Network's Cincinnati partner, The Kelley Financial Group, asked Hixson to help renovate their Cincinnati headquarters located at the Rookwood Pavilion. Attraction and retention were at the forefront of Northwestern Mutual's goals for the renovation project, along with adding new personnel to the space, and fit plans were developed for other buildings before the company decided to stay where they were. Hixson's design team worked directly with the Managing Partner to bring the facility up to date. Hixson designed and reorganized the existing space, selected and specified new finishes and furniture throughout. Particular features of the new environment include columns that frame the entrance (an icon that represents the company's established reputation), a logo of stainless steel embedded in a new, marble threshold, updated conference and training rooms, new agent suites, and a new community area for social networking, allowing employees to get up to speed on the latest news and grab a cup of coffee.
